

The Final Thoughts Of Charles Darwin

In his final years Charles Darwin accepted God as the Creator of all things and was converted to Christianity.

God used Lady Hope, wife of the senior admiral of the British fleet, to reach Charles Darwin with the gospel message during the last years of his life.

Charles Darwin was much of the time bedridden, and she would often visit him as a friend.

One afternoon, as he was reading the Christian Bible, she asked, “What are you studying now?”

“Still Hebrews,” he replied, “I call it the royal book, isn’t it grand?”

When Lady Hope mentioned how popular his theory of evolution had become, he gave her an anguished look and said, “I was a young man then, with uninformed ideas. I thought out queries and suggestions, wondering all the time ... and to my astonishment, those ideas took hold like wildfire. People made a religion of them.”

Later, Charles Darwin asked Lady Hope if she would share the Word of God with some of his friends in the garden summerhouse.

She asked, “What shall I speak about?”

Charles Darwin replied, “Jesus Christ and His salvation. Is that not the best theme?”

Dr. Victor Pearce, an Oxford scholar, says, “When someone tells you evolution explains everything, tell them that Charles Darwin discovered a better theme, Jesus Christ and His salvation.”

If they still doubt, invite them to read Charles Darwin’s favourite book, which says, “In these last days [God] has spoken to us by His Son ... through Whom He made the universe.” [Hebrews 1:2].

The greatest discovery that Charles Darwin made, and it was no theory but the Truth, was finding Jesus Christ as His Saviour.

How about you?
